Antique stone mantels with trumeau

Louis XIII-style fireplace with large keystone lintel in Burgundy limestone

This reclaimed Louis XIII-style fireplace, crafted in Burgundy limestone (a beautiful yellow-hued stone weathered by time) features a large hearth opening and an elegant trumeau in veneered stone. Tall and thin console jambs support the long keystone lintel, decorated with a hand-sculpted molded cartouche at its center. The large overhanging shelf is finely molded, adding to the fireplace's stately presence.
