Antique stone trough with a nice weathered patina and two compartments

This unique antique stone trough was carved from a single block of raw limestone. It features a large rectangular basin with an adjoining circular compartment. It would make a striking decorative garden piece, or could serve as a rustic planter for flowers or greenery. Alternatively, why not transform it into an antique-style fountain by adding a manual pump ? A one-of-a-kind piece, sold as-is. The basins are not drilled.
